

Conflict of Interest Disclosure Form

RTU Press requires that in accordance with "RTU PRESS PUBLICATION ETHICS GUIDELINES" the authors of manuscripts submitted for publication in RTU journals declare potential conflict of interests in order to allow editors and reviewers to consider, whether it may influence the reviewing of the manuscript. Having a conflict of interests is not in itself unethical; such interests are almost inevitable. Nevertheless, it can directly or indirectly influence the author's objective interpretation of the results of his research or those of others.

RTU Press and Editorial Boards of RTU journals will not reject papers simply because of the existing conflict of interest. The declaration of conflict of interests will provide the transparency of interpretation of the results. Please fill in this form, sign it and submit together with your manuscript. The corresponding author fills in the form in the name of co-authors after having received authorisation from them.
